

1 What really happened in Benghazi?

On September 11, 2012, a group of about 150 terrorist armed with rocket powered grenades launched a coordinated attack on what we have now learned is an American CIA command hub for the movement of weapons in Benghazi, Libya. A seven hour battle involving two different locations ensued that left four Americans dead; Ambassador Christopher Stevens, Foreign Service employee Sean Smith and two former Navy SEALs, Tyrone Woods and Glenn Doherty.

That's what really happened...but that's not what the American

2 Why has Benghazi become controversial?

Americans were misled about what really happened in Benghazi. The Obama administration initially told us that the attacks were 'spontaneous protests' sparked by a YouTube video about Islam.

President Obama blamed the YouTube video six times in a speech at the United Nations. Susan Rice, the United States Ambassador to the U.N., went on five different talk shows and said the attacks were spontaneous.

Why were the American people lied to about who killed Americans in Benghazi and why they died?

3 Why isn't the media talking more about Benghazi

As the election approached, people began to worry that the Benghazi scandal could hurt President Obama's chances of being re-elected.

4 Who was behind the Benghazi Attack

Last year's 'Arab Spring' uprising overthrew the government in a number of countries in North Africa, including Libya and Egypt. Radical Muslims who are often referred to as 'Islamists' have taken advantage of these popular uprisings. The Islamists want the entire world to live under the strict rules of Islam known as Sharia law, a system that embraces mistreatment and legal abuse of women.

All evidence so far shows that the September 11th attack in Benghazi was carried out by these Islamist forces with ties to the terrorist group al-Qaeda. That means even after the death of Osama Bin Laden, America still faces a serious Islamist threat.

5 Why Should Benghazi matter to me?

As important as issues like jobs and the deficit are, the enemies of America learned in 2001 that their acts of terrorism can not only cost lives but also ruin our economy.

A false sense of security won't keep America safe and Benghazi shows that our leaders and the press can't be counted on to give us the facts.
